

Star Spangled Rodeo

THE TRAIL OF PAINTED PONIES

Star Spangled Rodeo

Artists: Karlynn Keyes and Valor Lee

"Ladies and gentlemen, put your hands together as we welcome, Star Spangled Rodeo."

With that introduction, a magnificent white Appaloosa decorated with a distinctive blue-star pattern prances into the center of the arena, a sight so beautiful that fans are left breathless. As they leap to their feet, the rumble of a trumpet signals the start of the National Anthem, Old Glory snaps in the breeze, the thunder of applause swells from the stands, and another Rodeo begins...

Cowboy Up!

www.paintedponies.com

TM and © 2015 The Trail of Painted Ponies, Inc.

4046344

Pony Lover

THE TRAIL OF PAINTED PONIES

Pony Lover

Artist: Kim Ratigan

An avid animal lover from an early age who was always sketching horses, dogs and cats, this Canadian grew up in the city with a fantasy that someday she would wake up and run to the window, and in the front yard would be an awesome, beautiful and wonderful Pony waiting for her. Later, when she grew up to be an artist, she played with the idea that maybe, if she actually drew and painted the Pony of her dreams, what she pictured in her mind might someday become a reality. So she picked up a brush and went to work, and when she was done, the result was "Pony Lover."

www.paintedponies.com

TM and © 2015 The Trail of Painted Ponies, Inc.

4046322

Squash Blossom

THE TRAIL OF
PAINTED PONIES

Squash Blossom

Artist: Devon Archer

The inspiration for Squash Blossom comes from the artist's admiration of the beautiful, hand-hammered silver-and-turquoise jewelry made by Navajo silversmiths, and the fine textiles created by Navajo weavers. Incorporating both of these highly sought-after trade items into this gorgeous design – a squash blossom pendant for the breast plate, a traditional, banded, Navajo Chief's Blanket draped over the Pony's back – she has created an iconic equestrian tribute to the Dineh, as the Navajo call themselves.

www.paintedponies.com

TM and © 2015 The Trail of Painted Ponies, Inc.

4046326

Prince of the Wind

THE TRAIL OF
PAINTED PONIES

Prince of the Wind

Artist and Sculptor: Kathleen Moody

As the story is told, when Sky and Earth gave birth to a royal son they endowed him with the power to fly without wings, the ability to dance without music, and the endurance to rule over the vast Arabian desert. Last of all, they painted his nature with beauty and grace, before enthroning him as "Prince of the Wind."

www.paintedponies.com

TM and © 2015 The Trail of Painted Ponies, Inc.

4046323

Tickled Pink

THE TRAIL OF
PAINTED PONIES

Tickled Pink

Artist: Aloma Wolfington

My heart sings, I'm in harmony with you
Joyful elation, I'll never be blue
I'm Tickled Pink, you've played the right key Loves inspiration, the whole world can see

Aloma Wolfington

www.paintedponies.com